Ottawa: Robotics scholars to be funded

Precarn Incorporated, an Ottawa-based organization that helps to finance cutting edge technology, has announced a $405,000 scholarship to help support students working in the area of robotics and intelligent systems technology. The scholarship aims to benefit 54 graduate students, awarding each $7,500. The graduate students include Carleton University's Shafagh Jafer, who is working on methods to improve automated manufacturing processes.
